TWO MONTHS' WAR COMES TO CLOSE

After being Invaded by Twenty Thousand Soldiers Gettysburg is again at its Natural State and Stronous Times are Over.

The war is over.

After being attacked, besieged and captured for almost two months by over 20,000 soldiers peace has been declared in Gettysburg and the town is again released from capture.

But it was a bloodless conflict and altogether a pleasant one for Gettysburg and its residents. When the attack upon the town was first planned and talked of, the most energetic co-operation was given the proposed enemy to aid them in their onslaught and the war was brought about through the work of the army defending the town.

It has not been a very destructive war. Some few farms were invaded by the armies and a little foraging done in the way of stripping trees of green apples but the invaders made good such damages and there is little complaint from the outlying districts.

Once the invading forces had reached the borough limits they entered various places of business and left there sufficient coin to keep from want the residents of the captured city for many months to come. And while the soldiers left much money behind, a few broken hearts were also left in the wake of the retreating forces.

Peace was declared this afternoon as the last of the thousands of khaki clad troops pulled out in their long trains for their own country. Major General Bowman and staff who conducted the final portion of the campaign have also left and the town is now at peace and ready to enjoy the fruits of the busiest summer it has seen for many years.

63 WAGONS AT CURB MARKET

Another Record Breaking Market Day Brings Down Prices below Former Figures. Fine Fruit in Very Large Quantities.

Sixty three wagons were at the Gettysburg curb market this morning, beating the record of last Saturday, the biggest day the market had seen since its start in May.

The stall holders brought large quantities of fruits and vegetables and some things dropped below the prices asked during the past two months while others held up well though the majority of the hucksters were compelled to take some of their goods along home.

Sweet corn sold at ten and twelve cents a dozen. Strawberries were offered for sale at twenty five cents a box. There was an unusual quantity of fine large tomatoes at market and many of them were unsold.

Fruits of various kinds were also plentiful. Plums and green gages were among those in large quantities. Nice peaches and apples were offered while some of the smaller fruits were also on hand.

After the closing of the market a number of the people who had things unsold went around town trying to dispose of their goods and many were more or less successful.

REPORTED BIG TRAIN WRECK

Gettysburg Hears that Twenty National Guard Officers and Men are Killed in Wreck between Here and Harrisburg.

Reports reached Gettysburg early on Friday evening that a troop train carrying a large number of officers and men had been wrecked between here and Harrisburg and that more than a score had been killed. There was wild excitement among the staff correspondents of the metropolitan dailies represented here until the true facts were learned.

The start of the story was the derailing of the tender of the three o'clock express between here and Biglerville. One wheel left the track and the train was delayed about twenty minutes.

A Pittsburg newspaper man wired Philadelphia correspondents here that twenty generals, colonels and lieutenant colonels had been killed and advised them to get busy. The news reached Philadelphia and for an hour the wires were burning with inquiries concerning the disaster.

There was some trouble in discovering just what was wrong and when the source of the story was discovered some of the men felt that they had gone to sufficient trouble to merit writing a story—hence the accounts in some of the morning dailies.

METHODIST 5 REFORMED 1

Two More Teams in Sunday School Base Ball League Reverse their Standing. Beard in the Box Proves almost Invincible.

The Methodist defeated the Reformed in a one sided game Friday evening by the score of 5 to 1. The game only went five innings and in that time Beard, the Methodist pitcher struck out eleven of the seventeen men who faced him and allowed them but two hits, one of them of the scratch order.

Appler, for the Reformed, was hit safely eight times, including two doubles and a three bagger. In addition to these safe wallows his support was decidedly off at times.

Ridinger and Paul Oyler, of the Methodist infield and R. Smiley of the outfield were the only players on their team who had a fielding chance excepting the battery.

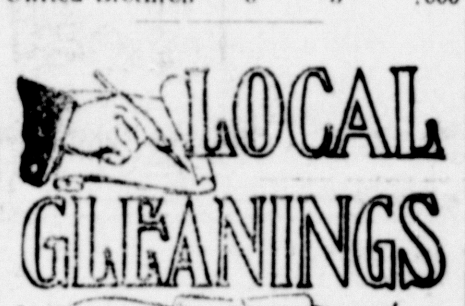

The Methodists scored two in the first on Paul Oyler's single. L. Oyler's infield hit, Zineand's out and Grove's hit. The Reformed' lone tally came in the second when Rupp doubled, was sacrificed to third and went home when Mayo threw high to catch him off third.

The Methodists added one in the second and two in the third. The score

Reformed	0	1	0	0	0	1
Methodists	2	1	2	0	x	5

The standing of the teams in the league follows:

	Won	Lost	P. C.
Catholic	7	1	.875

TO COST $10,000,000

A survey by the Western Maryland Railroad Company has been completed for the purpose of building a low grade track to skirt South Mountain, thus eliminating the climb directly over them, a course which the road as at present operated follows.

This would result in lengthening the route about ten miles, but would give the road a lower average grade to Pittsburg, in connection with the Pittsburg and Lake Erie, than the Baltimore and Ohio has, and at the same time would leave the distance in favor of the Western Maryland.

This extension is roughly estimated to cost about $10,000,000. It is stated that the Western Maryland already has a lower grade route over the Alleghenies than the one traversed by the Baltimore and Ohio.

If this contemplated move is made, it will reduce the grade over the entire Western Maryland Railroad as at present constituted to a considerable extent and permit of the running of fast passenger trains between Baltimore and Chicago.

RENT LIMIT REACHED

The Hanover Record-Herald says:—Although a large number of houses have been erected in Hanover during the past few years, rents continue to be very high, and seem to be on the increase. This cannot be explained altogether, unless it should be found that in a few years rents take a drop. One thing is sure—the limit has about been reached, and besides, there are a number of vacant houses throughout town.

UNCIVILIZED TANEYTOWN

The Taneytown Carroll Record says:—Gardening in Taneytown has its drawbacks. In addition to the difficulty in preparing the soil, planting and cultivating it, one has to contend with the dogs and poultry of neighbors, as well as the thieving habits of boys, old and young. Evidently the "Golden Rule," by some, is replaced by the rule—do your neighbors more than they do you. There are numerous complaints along this line—too many for a civilized community.

MAYOR GAYNOR WILL RECOVER

New York Executive May Leave
Hospital in Ten Days.

New York, Aug. 20.—Mayor Gaynor is now out of all danger. This announcement of his progress in the fight with death which New York's executive has been making in St. Mary's hospital, Hoboken, since he was shot by James J. Gallagher on Aug. 9 was made by Robert Adamson, the mayor's secretary. Mr. Adamson said:

"At this time the physicians in attendance upon Mayor Gaynor feel that he is practically out of danger and on the road to recovery. With the care that he is receiving and a continuation of the progress that he has been making since he was wounded the mayor will recover. No decision as to when he will be able to leave the hospital has yet been reached. In fact, his leaving hasn't yet begun to be considered by the physicians. It may be ten days or it may be more than two weeks yet. No chances will be taken."

In making this statement, Mr. Adamson said that all of the surgeons and attendants who had taken part in the conduct of the mayor's case agreed that were it not for the almost miraculous course of the bullet wound in his throat he wouldn't be as near a well man as he is, if he were alive at all.

One of the doctors had said of the bullet's course through the mayor's neck into the arch of the pharynx that had a surgeon attempted to make an incision with his knife along the same course he would have been hard put to it to follow a line that so perilously evaded the arteries and vital blood vessels.

CRIPPEN TO SUE PAPER

Starts Proceedings Because an Alleged Confession Was Printed.

London, Aug. 20.—The court of criminal appeal, upon application by counsel representing Dr. Hawley H. Crippen, granted a rule of nisi, calling upon the London Daily Chronicle to show cause why a writ of attachment should not be issued for contempt of court.

The alleged contempt consists of a story, printed Aug. 5, suggesting that Dr. Crippen had poisoned his wife. The doctor declared that Dr. Crippen had confessed or admitted to inspecting Dew, who arrested him upon arrival in Canada, that he had killed his wife. Counsel for Dr. Crippen produced a cable from Dr. Crippen denying that he had made any such confession.

Captain Kendall to Get Reward.
London, Aug. 20.—Scotland Yard has decided that the reward of $1250 which was offered for the capture of Dr. Hawley Crippen and Miss LeNeve after they had escaped from the hands of the police authorities, belongs to Captain Kendall. Captain Kendall commanded the steamship Montrose, on which Dr. Crippen and his typist sailed for Canada and rendered important assistance in the subsequent detection and arrest of the fleeing suspects.

The little daughter of the couple, Muriel Astor, eight years old, is being pointed to as the peace messenger.

The little girl makes her home with Mrs. Astor, in accordance with the agreement at the time of the separation and divorce. But writes to her father each week. The last of these missives is said to have been most pathetic, and to have reflected all the sorrow that can come into a child's life when parents are estranged.

"Mamma is so unhappy," Colonel Astor's little daughter wrote with childlike frankness. The message was only a part of a sentence in a long letter, and the friends of the parents are wondering if it will not be sufficient to undo the work of the divorce courts.

Colonel Astor evidently cherishes the letter, for he is known to be carrying it about with him and to have shown it to several of his most intimate friends. Mrs. Astor, it is said, does not yet know that the letter was written—at least she was not acquainted with the contents. No one knows whether Colonel Astor has seen his daughter since her arrival this week or not.

Mrs. Astor returned from abroad about ten days ago, and with little Muriel is spending the season at the cottage of her brother, Barton Willing. Colonel Astor also spends much of his time in Newport when not on his yacht.

Mrs. Astor came to the tennis tournament in the Casino Wednesday, but Colonel Astor was in New York, returning late Wednesday night for the tennis ball. Mrs. Astor was not among the guests at the latter function, nor was she at the Casino, but Colonel Astor was there and met a bevy of young women. He left the Casino with Miss Roberta Willard.

As though by arrangement, the couple manage their social engagements so as to prevent an embarrassing meeting, but their friends are ever on the alert, and the coming and going of each is watched with great interest, especially at this time.

Vincent Astor visits his mother and sister every day, and the strongest affection exists between them. This is pointed to as another possible source of reconciliation, as the son is the constant companion of his father.

The John Jacob Astors are liked here, not alone because of their wealth and social prominence in New York and elsewhere. They have been directly identified with the life of Newport for many years and have done much to advance the interest of the community. Nothing would do more to cement the social life of the famous resort than a reconciliation.

Colonel Astor planned several days ago to leave Saturday on his yacht for Bar Harbor with Vincent Astor and Richard Peters. It is also known that he arranged to leave Newport as soon as he learned some days ago that his former wife was coming here.

OPEN PART OF PANAMA CANAL

Part of Isthmian Channel on Atlantic Side Being Used.

Washington, Aug. 20.—Five and a half miles of the Panama canal at the Atlantic entrance were opened to navigation for the sand and rock fleet of the Atlantic division last week, according to the issue of the Canal Record, which reached this city.

This section, added to the five miles at the Pacific entrance, which is open to vessels of all kinds, brings the total of the canal now in actual use up to ten and a half miles.

The division just opened is not completed, but it has a channel fifteen feet deep at its shallowest point and a width of 100 feet at its narrowest point. The dredges are constantly working on this part, broadening and deepening it to the full width of 500 feet and the full depth of 45 feet.

A Singular Bet

By ALLAN G. LAMOND

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

We were but six line officers at a two company post in the western wilds. We had played poker till we had won one another's money several times over, but it was the same money passing and repassing between us, and the fund hadn't increased under the operation. Neither had it decreased. There was nothing to buy, neither wines, liquors nor cigars. We had brought a supply with us.

After every man of the six—the commandant didn't play poker—had been cleaned out half a dozen times, proceeded "on tab" and cleaned out every other man half a dozen times, Carter, captain of my company, remarked:

"I offer $10 to any man of this crowd who will give me a new sensation."

"Make it a hundred," said Billy Kendall, second lieutenant of E company, "and I'll try."

"I'll make it a hundred if you succeed, you to pay me a hundred if you don't."

"That's fair; I'll go you once."

"Who's to decide who wins?" asked Carter.

"I'll make a more definite proposition," replied Kendall. "I'll bet you that on or about tomorrow morning I pull old Tom's nose."

Old Tom was the major, thirty-eight years old, bald, dignified, even pompous, a martinet, and his proper name was Thomas Ordway.

"Great Scott! You'll be court-martialed and shot."

"Do you take me?"

"I certainly do, but the money will do you no good except to pay for your funeral."

"I'll risk that; put up the funds." Seabury, captain of F company, was made stakeholder, and he, with the two first lieutenants, were appointed umpires. The rest of the day was spent in wondering how Kendall was going to get out of losing his bet, for as to pulling the major's nose one might as well pull the nose of the secretary of war, the highest official an officer commands, except the president, who is only supposed to figure in pardons. But since no one could guess what Billy was up to, we finally drifted into night and were obliged to be content with this for the rest of the day and evening.

That night the surgeon was called up to treat Mose, the major's colored striker. He found Mose throwing up his supper of pork and hard tack. The next morning Mose remained in bed. The surgeon could not see that any thing was the matter with him, but Mose persuaded him to report to the major that his striker was unable for the present to perform his duties.

Just before guard mounting Kendall sent an orderly to Captain Seabury to say that as soon as the old guard had marched off some one of the umpires were to be at Old Tom's quarters ready to observe the pulling of his nose.

The major was in a bad humor that morning in consequence of the absence of his body servant and being required to get ready his own bath and perform other menial duties that were usually attended to by Mose. When the umpires heard the tramp of the guard that had been twenty-four hours on duty going to their quarters all three of them moved, at different times, so as not to attract attention, to headquarters. Near the door they rallied on the center and conferred. It was agreed that Seabury should make an excuse to go in, stay as long as he could, then come out, to be replaced by one of the others. Seabury entered, asked the major some trivial question on a matter of duty and came out, reporting that the major had his coat off and his collar unbuttoned, while Kendall was stropping a razor in a few minutes I went in and came out to report that the major was in the chair in which Mose usually shaved him. Kendall was lathering the commandant's face. Here comes Lieutenant Sykes, who had entered in his turn, laughing and slapping his leg.

"What is it?" asked the others crowding around him.

But Sykes was so full of laughter that he couldn't go on. Finally, when he recovered somewhat, he said:

"When I went in old Tom said apologetically, 'That infernal striker of mine had to get sick last night, and the surgeon reports that he can't shave me this morning. Mr. Kendall has kindly come to the rescue, and I am under an eternal obligation to him. What is it you want?'"

"Kendall," Sykes went on, "as soon as the major had finished speaking took hold of old Tom's nose with the forefinger and thumb of his left hand and, pulling it first to one side then to the other, looked up at me, winked and began to shave the commandant. Carter has lost."

"I believe," said Brown, "that rascal Kendall bribed Mose to be sick."

"Sure enough," chimed in Seabury, "Let's go and find Carter."

At Carter's quarters they told the story, and the captain agreed that the joke was worth the stake. In a little while Kendall came in and told how he had bribed Mose with a ten dollar bill to take an emetic, to fool the surgeon and stay in bed the next morning. Knowing how old Tom dreaded to go without a shave and couldn't shave himself, Kendall had enticed him to let him do the job.

SKIN TROUBLES

A large percentage of people have some sort of an affliction of the skin. If slight, it may become worse if not given attention. If already annoying, relief can be had by using MANOLINE. Don't neglect the care of the skin. Water and pure soap should be used freely, then finish the bath by using MANOLINE; you'll be surprised at how quickly you will notice skin improvement. There are 300 drops of MANOLINE in a tube, costs 25c instead of One or Two Dollars. Absolutely as represented in every respect. Money back if not.

CURES PIMPLES QUICKLY

Simple Remedy That Clears Skin Quickly of All Eruptions.

For several weeks past L. M. Buehler has done the biggest business he ever had in any article in selling Hokara, the skin food that has won so many friends in Gettysburg.

It has been found to be an absolute cure not only for all minor skin troubles, such as pimples, blackheads, herpes, acne, scaly scalp, complexion blemishes, itching feet, piles, etc., but for the worst sores, ulcers, or even chronic eczema and salt rheum. There has yet to be found any form of wound or disease affecting the skin or mucous membrane that Hokara does not heal, and its action is so instantaneous that those who try it are simply delighted with it right from the start. In spite of its unusual curative powers, the price is trifling. To convince every one of its merits, L. M. Buehler will sell a liberal-sized jar for 25c; larger size 50c. And remember that if you do not think it does what it claims, you get your money back. You certainly can afford to try it on this plan.

by local application, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness cured by Catarrh that cannot be cured by other means. Send for our circular.

THOUSANDS FLEE FROM CHOLERA

Dread Scourge Sweeping Over Towns of Southern Italy.

SUFFERERS AIDED BY QUEEN

Disease Kills Nearly 11,000 in Russia In One Week, and 50,000 Have Died There Since Beginning of Year.

Bari, Italy Aug. 20.—The epidemic of cholera, which has broken out in southern Italy, is steadily showing an increase in the districts affected, particularly in the town of Trani, where the number of deaths already is more than thirty.

The latest official report gave twenty deaths at Trani, showing the rapidity with which the disease is increasing there. The epidemic is of a virulent type and the death rate is high.

Even graver danger is anticipated from the fleeing population of the infected districts, who may bear the germs of the disease to regions not yet involved. Trani seems almost deserted as a result of a panic. 20,000 of the residents, fully one-half of the population, having fled the town. Fully as many have escaped from the island town of Barletta.

King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena, who are at Turin, are displaying great anxiety over the outbreak of the cholera in the south, and the king has given orders that he be kept constantly informed on conditions in the infected regions.

The Queen is especially touched by the reports of the distress among the people of the Province of Bari delle Puglie, and has made inquiries regarding their needs, ordering that assistance be given them, for which she will pay out of her private purse.

The king has already intimated his intention of imitating his father, who, in 1885, fearless of danger, proceeded to Naples and remained among the cholera patients, who were dying at the rate of a thousand a day.

It would be a serious thing if the king determined to proceed to the cholera district, for the queen has positively declared that she would share the risks of the king. Her majesty accompanied the king to Messina and to Avellino, when they were overthrown by earthquakes, and on these occasions she insisted upon being at the front, not sparing herself any hardship.

Kills Nearly 11,000 in Russia in Week. St. Petersburg, Aug. 20.—One week's cholera record for Russia shows 23,944 new cases of cholera and 10,723 deaths, bringing the total number of cases in Russia this year to 112,985. Of these 50,257 have died, the mortality percentage being 44.

Of the deaths last week 1678 were reported from the district of the Don Cossacks, 1057 from the district of the Kuban Cossacks, 1018 in Yekaterinoslav province, 759 in Samara province, 416 in Voronezh, 411 in the Terek Cossack district, 352 in Kherson province, 334 in the Crimea, where Russians resort for the summer months, 333 in Tambov province, and 325 in Staropolt province.

The total figures for St. Petersburg since the first cases were reported June 20 show 2079 cases and 730 deaths. The mortality here in the capital, 35 per cent, is much less than in the southern provinces, owing to better hospital facilities and the experience gained by handling the first big outbreak two years ago.

New York Watching Cholera. New York, Aug. 20.—There is not the slightest possibility of the cholera plague spreading to the United States, health authorities say, the quarantine measures now in force here and in Russia being so effective as to preclude any danger of Russian immigrants bringing over the dread disease.

Dr. Doty, health officer of the port of New York, said that as a measure of safety all persons coming from Russia are held at the various ports of departure for five days under medical supervision before they are allowed to embark for this country.

Persons infected with cholera develop the disease within five days. The present regulation of quarantine at point of departure until the danger period is passed probably will be put into force at once at several of the Italian ports.

All vessels reaching here from any Russian or Italian ports having on board any cases which are at all suspicious are held under the closest scrutiny until the suspects are isolated and taken to the quarantine hospital.

Montt's Funeral. Bremen, Aug. 20.—The body of the late President Pedro Montt of Chile, who died here Tuesday while on his way to Carlsbad for medical treatment, will be sent to Berlin, where the funeral will be held. Madame Montt and her sister are now in Berlin.

Court Ousts an Iowa Mayor. Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 20.—Judge K. E. Wilcoxon, at Sigourney, handed down an opinion ousting Thomas J. Phillips as mayor of Ottumwa, Ia. The mayor was accused of permitting resorts and gambling houses to run and of intoxication.

ANNEXATION OF CANADA

National Leader of Quebec Sees Best Future in This Step.

Antigonish, N. S., Aug. 20.—Annexation of Canada to the United States was advocated in an address by Henri Bourassa, M. P., the Nationalist leader of Quebec, before the summer school of science of St. Francis Xavier College.

The speaker dwelt upon the four possible destinies of Canada, namely, Remaining in her present state, which he regarded as very improbable; Imperial federation; annexation to the United States and Independence.

"Imperial federation means an imperial council with a preponderant British influence," said Mr. Bourassa. "Conditions in Canada make for annexation rather than for imperial federation. The penetrative influence of trade by rail and coastal lines, the mental propensity of the two peoples living under the same or similar conditions. Industrial and social, the constant inter-communication of Canadians and Americans are all powerful factors making for annexation."

The speaker dwelt upon the four possible destinies of Canada, namely, Remaining in her present state, which he regarded as very improbable; Imperial federation; annexation to the United States and Independence.

BAREFOOT DANCES FOR NEWPORT SOCIETY

Mrs. J. B. Haggin Gives Fete and Terpsichorean Recital.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 20.—Mrs. James B. Haggin gave a dinner and dance with one hundred guests for dinner. Later others came in for the dance and to enjoy the recital by the dancer, Countess Tamara de Swirsky.

While dinner was served, mechanics transformed the large hall into a miniature theater, where the dance recital was held with spotlights and other electrical effects.

Guests for the dinner included Mrs. John R. Drexler, Mrs. Herman Oelrichs, Mrs. Amer Hollingsworth, Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Berwind, Mr. and Mrs. Craig Biddle, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Scott Burden, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Dolan, Mrs. Henry Symes, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Widener, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald C. Vanderbilt, Miss Julia Berwind, George Brooke, Jr., Colonel John Jacob Astor, Thomas Ridgeway, Prince Trubetzkoy, Samuel Chew and J. R. Barton Willing.

The dances by Countess de Swirsky included Greek and Russian. She danced several of the numbers in her bare feet on a rug.

MRS. COREY WON'T ACT

Is Leading the Simple Life and Studying the Opera.

Paris, Aug. 20.—Mrs. W. E. Corey, once known to the stage as Mabel Gilman, says that the report that she intended to return to the theatrical profession was incorrect.

"The rumor to that effect," said Mrs. Corey, "must have arisen from my studies of opera, which now engage my leisure time. I don't desire to be interviewed as to my plans. I volunteered to act in a play for charity in London some time ago, and may yet do so."

Mrs. Corey is very assiduous at her studies, "in fact," said a friend of hers, "she's always at them." Mrs. Corey is living the simple life and seeking solitude in her chateau of Villégien, near Verrieres le Dunois.

Actress Elsie Fay Bankrupt. New York, Aug. 20.—Elsie Fay, the actress, has filed a petition in bankruptcy. Her liabilities, she says, are $2575 and her assets only her street clothes, a few stage costumes and other trifles that are exempt.

Miss Fay said she had been ill and out of work for some time. Most of the bills are owed to hotels and boarding housekeepers. Miss Fay is living at 910 Columbus avenue. She has some work ahead at Asbury Park.

TWO ARRESTS IN RAILROAD GRAFT

Storm Breaks in Illinois Central Railroad Scandal.

$700,000 OFFERED TO SETTLE

Former General Manager Harriman and Former General Superintendent Ewing Taken into Custody in Chicago.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—The Illinois Central railway graft scandal storm has broken with tempestuous fury. Frank B. Harriman, 6531 Bennett avenue, formerly general manager of the Illinois Central lines, was arrested, as was also, simultaneously, Charles L. Ewing, of 6955 Euclid avenue, formerly general superintendent of the road north of the Ohio river.

They were taken into custody by Sergeant William Reid and Detective W. J. Burns, of the Burns & Sheridan detective agency, who had personal charge of working up the evidence against the alleged Illinois Central grafters.

The arrests were made on warrants sworn to and issued by Judge Brug gemeyer, of the Harrison street court. There were also warrants taken out for John M. Taylor, of 5700 Washington avenue, formerly general store keeper of the Illinois Central shops at Burnside. The men are charged in the writs with conspiracy to cheat and defraud the road by false pretenses and with operating a confidence game.

The name of Ewing was thus brought into the case, as far as the public is concerned, for the first time. These warrants are merely the fore runners of hosts of such writs that will be taken out. President J. T. Harahan himself swore to the charges. An attache of the road said: "We will get the last man in this conspiracy, down to the fellows that drove the spikes in the roadbed. If there be any such, that had guilty knowledge of the scheme."

The same officer announced that some idea might be conveyed to the public of the strength of the criminal cases that have been worked up against the alleged offenders by reason of the fact that the road this week refused an offer of $700,000, in return for which the complaints were to be dropped and no public exposure of the alleged culprits made.

"The mass of evidence against these men and the others who will be arrested later is so great it demonstrates that political graft in its palmiest conditions pales into insignificance besides the hoodwinking of the executives of the great railroads by designing underlings," said a man who has been identified with the investigation. "I predict that the other roads will wake up and investigate, and that there will be sensation after sensation before the subject of 'railroad graft' becomes a dead issue."

GOMPERS FIGHTS DALZELL

Says Federation Will Be Solidly Against Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Aug. 20.—"We are going to try help defeat John Dalzell for reelection. I will not say whether we will stand on the Republican or Democratic side of the fence."

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, voiced the attitude of his organization in relation to the fight in the Thirtieth congressional district. Labor leaders started raising a $20,000 fund to defeat Dalzell. Earlier Gompers conferred with Robert J. Black, of McKeesport, who opposed Dalzell at the recent Republican primaries, with Judge Tunison, the representative of James A. Wakefield, the Democratic nominee for the seat in the lower house of congress, and representative labor men. Black's presence at the conference is taken to mean that he will run independently.

"We are making a fight for the people and labor generally," continued Gompers, "and are opposed to Cannon and his right bower, Dalzell. They represent the special interests as against the people's interests. They will permit no legislation for the welfare of the people to pass congress."

Killed By His Roommate. Pittston, Pa., Aug. 20.—Antonio Parezo was killed by his bedmate John Foti, and the slayer is now a fugitive. The men had an apparently trivial quarrel Sunday, and for a few days slept in the same room without speaking. As Parezo emerged from the bedroom ready for work, Foti faced him with a double-barreled shot gun and fired one load into his chest. Parezo reeled, and then Foti fired the other barrel into his back and ran.

Star Jockey Arrested.

Saratoga, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Jockey Grover Cleveland Fuller, some seasons back the best rider in the country, was fined $10 on a charge of drunkenness by Magistrate Andrus. It was the second time he had been before the magistrate in twenty-four hours, and on his first appearance was released on suspended sentence. Fuller did not have the necessary ten, but a friend was found who saved him from a jail sentence.

For the Farmer With Brains. Every lost bolt should be replaced at once. Manufacturers don't put useless bolts in machines just for the fun of it.

At the Minnesota experiment station wheat grown continuously on one plot since 1894 has averaged 18.6 bushels since 1900, and wheat on ground of the same kind and treated the same, but in a three year rotation, has averaged 20.6 bushels.

Beautiful home grounds are an investment just as good fences, drainage, etc., are. They add to the value of the farm and to the happiness of the family.

The Wisconsin experiment station has found one acre of rape when combined with grain equal to 2,767 pounds of corn and shorts.

When your wife asks you to help pick small fruit for canning don't growl about it. You will be cheerful enough about eating it next winter.

Placing a small heap of rich stable manure around the base of each tree in the orchard will prove to be a little time most profitably spent.

Some refuse straw scattered among the small fruit bushes will work wonders as a fertilizer and in keeping down the unsightly and unprofitable weed pests.

Drainage must deal with the maximum, not the minimum nor the average quantity of water. Tile that are too small fall in wet seasons, the too you need them most.

The barn set on a concrete foundation looks substantial, and it is so and will last longer than the one set on wooden posts or blocks.

Gasoline Hay Stacker. A new wrinkle in farm machinery is a gasoline hay stacker, which takes the place of the old horse on the sweep. The gasoline in a tank is half buried in the ground at some distance from the engine to avoid danger of explosion.

"BACK TO THE FARM"

XIV.—Bringing the College to the Farmer.

By C. V. GREGORY.

(Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.)

THE agricultural colleges, the secondary schools and the rural schools are doing a great deal to educate the farmers of the future. To educate the farmers of the present some other system is needed. This has been provided in many communities through extension departments of the agricultural colleges. The purpose of these departments is to get as close as possible to the actual farmers and to teach them a few of the principles of modern agriculture.

One of the principal means of accomplishing this work is by short courses held at the agricultural college. They are attended by a large number of farmers. Most of these are men who could not leave home to take a longer course. The instruction at these courses is as simple and practical as possible. There is very little studying connected with a course of this kind. It consists mainly of lectures and laboratory work.

Laboratory work is given in corn judging. The farmers learn to distinguish between the different varieties, they learn the points that go to make a good ear of corn, and they get a great deal of practice in placing ears and samples in order of merit. The interest in this work is heightened in many cases by holding a corn show in connection with the short course.

Laboratory work is given also in stock judging. Most of the colleges have a large number of representative animals of the principal breeds. These are supplemented in many cases by importations from leading breeders. Many farmers learn for the first time just what a sidebone is and how it is formed. Most of them know a good horse when they see it, but they learn at the short course just what points make him good. They also learn to discriminate between two horses which at first sight look equally good. At some short courses meat demonstrations are held, which prove to be a very popular feature. The annual meat demonstration at the Iowa Agricultural college, at which Uncle John Gosling, the veteran butcher of Kansas City, presides, is famous all over the middle west. The farmers who are attending short courses go over the animals in class until they become thoroughly familiar with them. Then these same animals are slaughtered, and Uncle John points out the differences in the cuts of meat. After such a demonstration the student understands more clearly the difference between a pure bred steer and one of the nondescript kind. The chances are that he goes home with a determination to raise better cattle. One more step has been taken to relieve the beef famine.

The women are not neglected at the short courses. They are given work in domestic science and home management. They go back with an ambition to have more beautiful and more convenient homes. They also learn some of the things they can do to improve the social life of the neighborhood, and the inspiration they gain is reflected the next year in their home community.

While the work given in the short courses cannot be as thorough as that in the longer courses, the results are seen more early. The short course students are nearly all actual farmers or farmers' wives, and the ideas they learn at the short course are put into immediate practice on their own farms and in their own communities.

It is impossible for any very great percentage of the farmers to get away from home for even two weeks, however. The short course at the college is good as far as it goes, but it is only a beginning. To extend the work of the college short course several states have inaugurated the plan of putting on local short courses. The commercial club of some live country town joins with the farmers to provide a place for meetings. Whenever sufficient interest is shown the college furnishes a corps of instructors. These local short courses usually last but one week. The work given is much like that of the college short course, although, of course, there is not as much equipment to work with. Every student is obliged to bring ten ears of corn for class work. Stock is obtained from local breeders. The Iowa Agricultural college last winter sent out a car loaded with some of the best of the college stock and corn to short courses in that state. The local short courses are very popular and reach many farmers who cannot get away from home for more than a few days at a time.

One of the oldest means for taking information to the farmers is the farmers' institute. This is exceptionally good in that it gives a chance for a great deal of discussion among farmers, which creates interest and brings out the methods which have proved most successful. Usually two or three speakers from the college are present to talk at these institutes.

The county fair is another rural institution that is a great educator. The old type of county fairs, that were little more than racing meets and places for gamblers, is almost a thing of the past. The modern county fair has its full share of amusements, but they are for the most part clean. A good horse race is enjoyed by every red blooded farmer. A baseball game or a balloon ascension adds to the enthusiasm. An opportunity is given to the farmer and his family to meet their friends from all parts of the country. The village and town people mingle with the farmers on an equal basis, and all get better acquainted. Many fair associations have provided groves where picnic dinners can be spread.

The best part of the fair, however, is the educational feature. This is fostered by competition. There are corn growing contests for the boys and corn and stock judging contests. Often the boys who come out ahead in these contests are sent to the short course at the college and their expenses paid by the fair association. The farmers are eager to see which can produce the best colt or best steer. A man from the agricultural college judges the stock. After he has placed the ribbons he explains why the prize winning animals were given the preference. The man who gets a blue ribbon goes home encouraged to strive harder than ever, while his neighbor who is placed further down the line grits his teeth and determines to have something next year that cannot be beaten. The county fair is America's most truly rural institution and is one of the foremost factors in arousing interest in country life.

What the county fair does for localities the state and district fairs do for a larger territory. Perfect cattle vie with each other for the premier honors, and the massive drafters divide the popular attention with the high stepping, flashily moving carriage horses.

Spreading agricultural knowledge by special train is a new way of reaching the farmer that is just coming into vogue. The movement began in Iowa six years ago, when the seed corn trains were run on all the principal railroads of the state. A regular schedule was made, the train stopping for half an hour at each station. The cars were filled with farmers, and the college professors explained the value of tested seed corn and told how the testing could be done. A comparison of the average yields of corn in the state for the five year periods before and after the first corn trains were run shows an increase of 2.4 bushels to the acre. Careful observers credit a large share of this increase to the seed corn trains. Figuring the average acreage and the average farm value for the five years, the increase was worth more than $8,000,000 a year. The extra 2.4 bushels have done much to bolster up the diminishing food supply.

Since 1904 special trains of various kinds have been run for the benefit of the farmers. Oregon has run an apple train. Ohio has run a dairy train, and the people of that state have been taught to test their cows and get rid of those which are not paying for their board. South Dakota and northern Iowa have run oat trains and taught the farmers how to put the oat crop on the paying side of the ledger.

Illinois has run a good roads train, teaching the farmers by the object lesson how they can have hard roads the year around. The special trains are spectacular, but that is one of the reasons for their success. It reaches more people in a given length of time than all other methods of agricultural extension together. In Iowa last winter three weeks' work with special trains spread the gospel of corn testing to more than 50,000 farmers.

CORN BREAKS FROM PERU.

Two cereal freaks exhibited at corn shows held the past season have been the primitive or wild husk corn, in which each kernel is incased in a husk of its own, and in the case of grains of wheat, and the giant Cuzco corn, grown in Peru, South America. The husk corn is supposed to be the parent of the varieties of cultivated American maize, the husk of the original type being reduced to the light chaff to be found incasing the germ of present day corn. The kernel of the primitive corn is short, nearly round and flinty in character and about one-third of the size of an average kernel of corn. Samples of the Peru corn exhibited were twenty-two inches long and fourteen inches in circumference, the kernels being three-quarters of an inch long, nearly as broad and having a surface as large as a nickel.

A Legend

By SUSAN YOUNG PORTER

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

In the year A. D. 875 at a Maying party in Suffolk county, England, a young Saxon yeoman saw a girl dancing with others about a Maypole. So graceful was she, her eyes were so blue, her hair, glistening in the sunlight and tossed about with every step, was so fair, so happy was her smile, so melodious her laughter, that the young man was enraptured.

John Boylan was a strapping youth who could send an arrow into the core of an apple at 200 yards and had already borne a pike in the cause of his king, Edmond, against the Danes, having been with his sovereign on the fatal day when he was defeated and his reign came to an end. John's father had since died and left him possession of the farm, consisting of 500 acres in land, with many cows, sheep, pigs and other cattle. His mother had died before his father, and he had no brothers or sisters.

And so it was that when John saw the graceful Ethelreda dancing about the Maypole he bethought himself how happy he would be if he might take her home to live with him. Straightway he went to her father and said to him:

"I wish your daughter to wife. I have my own farm and cattle, but I have no one to milk the cows or to keep me company when I have done my work or to have a care of my estate when I have gone into the forest to hunt or am called upon by my lord to do battle. I therefore pray you to give me your daughter."

So the father, knowing of John's wealth, called his daughter and, pointing to the young man, who was at the time leaning on his bow, said to her:

"This man has his own farm and his cows and his sheep and his pigs, but he has no wife to milk the cows or have a care of the sheep or feed his pigs when he is in the forest hunting or doing service in war for his suzerain. Therefore he has asked me for you to be his wife, and you will get ready for the wedding."

Ethelreda knew this to be a command, and any command from her father she would not think of disobeying. She cast only one shy glance at John when the word wife was spoken, and, seeing the tall, well formed young man looking kindly upon her, she gave him her heart at once and went away to begin her preparations for the wedding.

It was but a few weeks after this that a bridal party, of which John and Ethelreda were the principal figures, left the church where they had been married and started for John's home. To reach it they were obliged to pass over a bridge across a small stream called Goldbrook. This they did, making merry the while, though when they were halfway over John stopped, and a shudder passed over his stalwart frame. But whatever the cause he conquered it and passed on with the same light step as before.

The wedding was celebrated with feasting and dancing, the stinging of minstrels and games, all of which were customary at weddings in that day, after which the bride and groom went back to John's farm.

Never did it appear that a newly married couple would be happier. But they had not been together a week before a band of robbers ran off with the best of John's cows. Then in the summer, during a thunderstorm, the lightning struck the house and well nigh demolished it. In the autumn a snowstorm such as had never been known before in England covered John's sheep, and very few came out alive. The next spring a baby was born to the couple, but it died a few hours after its birth, and its mother went with it.

Then John went out to Goldbrook stream and cut an inscription on the keystone to this effect:

"In the year of our Lord 870 King Edmond, having been defeated by the Danes, hid in the branches of the oak tree standing close by this bridge. There he remained during the day and at nightfall came down from the tree and hid himself under this bridge over Goldbrook stream. That night a wedding party passed over the bridge. The moon shone down from the heavens. One of the throng espied its rays shining on the king's golden spur, and going down under the bridge, they saw him crouching there. He was delivered to his enemies, who, leading him to the tree in which he had hidden during the day, filled him full of arrows. His body was borne to Bury St. Edmunds and interred there."

The disconsolate husband, having finished this inscription, wrote beneath it in large letters:

"Cursed Be the Wedding Party That Passes This Bridge."

Whether John placed the record of the event on the bridge is not certain. It is there today after ten centuries have passed over it. No part of the curse is to be seen. It has been handed down by tradition.

Certain it is that no wedding party will cross Goldbrook bridge, preferring to go by a circuitous route.

Stranding in the center of an open field, on the spot where grew the tree in which King Edmond took refuge, is an obelisk erected to his memory.

England is full of these old traditions, many of them like this handed down from a period antedating the conquest by William I., which gave them their present sovereign.

Cooling the Cream.

To cool the cream quickly and thoroughly just as soon as the separating is finished is of more importance than anything else at that particular time. The pigs and calves can wait for their skim milk, but bacteria in the cream wait for nothing until the temperature favorable to their growth is reduced.
